DETAILED ACTION

Information Disclosure Statement

The information disclosure statement filed on August 26, 2003 has been fully considered by the examiner.

Specification

Applicant is reminded of the proper content of an abstract of the disclosure.

A patent abstract is a concise statement of the technical disclosure of the patent and should include that which is new in the art to which the invention pertains. If the patent is of a basic nature, the entire technical disclosure may be new in the art, and the abstract should be directed to the entire disclosure. If the patent is in the nature of an improvement in an old apparatus, process, product, or composition, the abstract should include the technical disclosure of the improvement. In certain patents, particularly those for compounds and compositions, wherein the process for making and/or the use thereof are not obvious, the abstract should set forth a process for making and/or use thereof. If the new technical disclosure involves modifications or alternatives, the abstract should mention by way of example the preferred modification or alternative.

The abstract should not refer to purported merits or speculative applications of the invention and should not compare the invention with the prior art.

Where applicable, the abstract should include the following:

- (1) if a machine or apparatus, its organization and operation;
- (2) if an article, its method of making;
- (3) if a chemical compound, its identity and use;
- (4) if a mixture, its ingredients;
- (5) if a process, the steps.

Extensive mechanical and design details of apparatus should not be given.

The abstract is objected to because it lacks the aforementioned details.

Appropriate correction is required.

Claim Objections

Claim 2 is objected to because of the following informalities: The phrase "according to claim 2" appears to be a mistype. Further inspection of this claim by the examiner was taken with "according to claim 1" replacing the mistype. Appropriate correction is required.

Art Unit: 2877

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1-5 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Barkhoudarian (USPN 4,612,797).

Regarding claim 1, Barkhoudarian discloses a method for the contactless recognition of an object by illuminating the object and evaluating the light reflected by the object by employing an interference (i.e. reference) pattern (column 2, lines 46-55).

In regards to claim 2, Barkhoudarian's device uses a beam splitter (24), a collimator (26 and 30), and an optical system (42 and 54) to direct the coherent light of the light source (Figure 1).

Regarding claim 3, Barkhoudarian discloses a method generating an interference pattern with the coherent light and light reflected by the object, and comparing said interference pattern with a desired interference (i.e. reference) pattern (column 3, lines 49-65).

In regards to claim 4, the device of Barkhoudarian uses a beam splitter (24) to divert a portion of the coherent light beam, called the reference beam (50), from the light source (Figure 1).

Regarding claim 5, Barkhoudarian discloses superimposing the reflected light over a desired interference (i.e. reference) pattern to generate diffracted light and measuring the intensity of the diffracted light. The distortions where leakage flow affects the optical path length of the second pulse represent this intensity of diffracted light. (column 3, lines 61-65)
